Christmas in Denmark and England

In Denmark, the big Christmas party is on the evening of 24 December. Families eat a big dinner, dance around the Christmas tree and sing songs. Then they open their presents.

In England, the big day is 25 December. It is called Christmas Day. On Christmas morning, children often find presents in a stocking. At lunch, many families eat roast turkey and Christmas pudding.

They also pull Christmas crackers. A cracker goes bang, and there is a paper hat inside! The day after Christmas is called Boxing Day.
